WE NOMINATE

George Nelson Tower Jr., 43-year old founding president of the Tower Construction Company, who in the past five years has conclusively demonstrated that the combination of initiative, ability and determination can still be made to pay dividends in these United States. In an era when the concept of "bigness"—whether in business, education or government—threatens to dominate American life, Tower and his staff have developed a remarkable, up-and-coming firm. It has recently finished the $187,000 Borough Firehouse and Garage, is now completing an unusual addition to the Princeton Country Day School and has been invited to submit bids for the new Princeton University Store as well as for the administrative headquarters for the $6,000,000 Princeton-Pennsylvania Accelerator at the Forrestal Research Center.

A member of the Class of 1936 at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, where he majored in general engineering, this Brooklyn-born Princetonian followed his father into the textile business. From immediately after graduation until 1952, when he and his wife purchased a small building firm controlled by Edmund Cook, he had been associated in an executive capacity with J. B. Stevens Co., Inc., one of the world's largest textile organizations. In explaining the seemingly abrupt switch into a new and highly competitive field, Tower, a resident of Princeton for 17 years, points out that he had long been pondering the possibility of breaking away for "something more creative" and suddenly found the opportunity to capitalize upon his education, administrative background and lifelong interests in construction.

Tower, whose weekly payroll has jumped from approximately $400 in 1952 to $5,000 in the summer of 1957, started slowly, establishing his reputation as builder of residences in the $40,000-$50,000 range. Over the past three years, the company has completed some 25 homes in Greater Princeton, including the Joseph E. Johnson house on Winant Road, that has been widely publicized in professional journals in this country and abroad. Tower's first major commercial venture, The First National Bank Branch at Princeton Junction, was followed in rapid order by the Firehouse-Garage, Country Day's pre-stressed concrete wing (the first structure of its kind in this area) and a $150,000 garage for New Jersey Bell near Phillipsburg, N. J., the initial operation at a distance from the Princeton base.

Anticipating that his concern's annual billings will approach the $1,000,000-mark in the near future, Tower, an Army Medical Corps veteran of World War II, devotes the time he formerly earmarked for "railroading" and boating to what he terms "sidewalk-superintending"—running around the countryside looking at jobs, mine and others." It is his conviction that building is such a "very personal business," creating between client and builder the kind of relationships traditionally associated with family physician and his patients, that there can be few hours left-over for anything not closely linked with his company's main purposes.

For strengthening the intrinsically American tradition of "free private enterprise" in the often dismaying Atomic Present; for his achievements in a challenging sphere of endeavors; for making a major contribution to the continued well-being of the "Princeton Economy," he is Town Topics' nominee for

IN THE CARDS?

Western Electric Hopes So. Claiming the same type of "campus-like" research park which a number of other firms have claimed so successfully in this area, Western Electric Company girded itself this week for a fight to obtain acreage in nearby Hopewell Township. Most observers expected firm belief that the big corporation will achieve its desires, but property owners adjoining the proposed site were still to be heard from.

At 8 p.m. Friday in Hopewell Township Municipal Building located on the Washington Crossing-Pennington Road, the Hopewell Township Planning Board will give both proponents and opponents of the project a public hearing. Representatives of the company will ask the board to okay a "special use permit" under the municipality's zoning ordinance. The opposition forces will object on the basis that the land usage shouldn't be changed and industry shouldn't be granted another foothold in the country.

Western Electric, which hopes to obtain almost 200 acres in Hopewell Township for basic studies and development work in the field of telephone technology (for Bell Telephone), has asked the Hopewell officials to endorse land on the east side of Carter Road "for landscaped administrative offices and laboratories, or a research center." The company would like to fill the premises formerly occupied by the Princeton Film Center with a center worth $1,500,000 — a center that would employ close to 300 workers and follow a traditional archi-

Lion in the Dog House

In nearby Ewing Township, Ralph Restucco, an ex-circus gorilla keeper, likes his animals big. "Dogs and cats are too tame" — so he has had in turn four monkeys, which he fed on his ice cream route before selling them; a black bear that he kept for 18 months "before he got too ornery and I shot him"; and a 400-lb. African lion.

His most recent acquisition is causing some concern to the neighborhood, although several hundred visitors have paid small fees to watch the lion in his steel and concrete cage, thereby helping to defray the cost of 10 pounds of meat the lion munches on daily. One of the more visibly annoyed neighbors has filed a nuisance complaint against Restucco, but Ewing mayor Peter J. DeFresco thinks the lion has more teeth than the law does. "We don't," he admits frankly, "have an ordinance to cover a lion."

Mr. Restucco is inclined to feel the whole thing is over-exaggerated. Firm in his belief in the power of understatement, he has placed a sign on his premises that says "Beware of Dog."

tectural style that harmonizes with other buildings in the community.

Mark M. Jones of Carter Road, chairman of the Homeowners' Group opposing the Western Electric move, probably will appear at Friday's session, accompanied by a fair share of fellow believers. But Western Electric seems determined to receive approval from the rateables-conscious Hopewell Township Planning Board itself, just as similar companies have received the "green light" from similar boards throughout the Princeton area. It's in the cards for Western Electric, which has high hopes of breaking ground by year's end.

JERSEY JUSTICE

Pollerman's Killer Paroled. It is possible to shoot and kill a man unable to defend himself because he has just been slugged by the butt of another's revolver and walk out of jail less than 11 years after the crime. "Jersey Justice," a term coined in irony for the legal inconsistencies credited to this State, proved as much this week.

On a cold, starless February night in 1946, three New York hoodlums armed with souvenir German pistols found their way into a John Street social club. Picking a quarrel over service at the bar to which they were not entitled, they were in process of creating a major disturbance when an off-duty patrolman sought to restore order.

The dedication to duty shown by Patrolman Walter B. Harris, a rookie member of the Borough police department, cost him his life. Seconds after Milton Cross, pistol-wielding teenager, brought Harris near the point of unconsciousness by slugging him in the head with the butt of his revolver, brother Norman "oldy" shot him in the stomach. He died at Princeton Hospital inside of two hours.

This week, after serving less than 11 years of a 20 to 30-year term for second degree murder, Norman Cross got his parole from the State of New Jersey. His brother, convicted of manslaughter, had walked out some time ago. A gun-bearing companion never needed a parole. New Jersey had not seen fit to convict him in the first place.

A thought for the future: the night they killed Patrolman Harris, the Cross brothers were already parole-violators.

DROUGHT SERIOUS

But Princetonians Rally. Since the last year of the Civil War—the first year the U.S. Weather Bureau started keeping records in this area—farmers in the central part of New Jersey haven't had it so bad. Only 4.10 inches of rainfall were recorded during June, July and August, or approximately what the Princeton community should have registered in June.

Sevell Updike of Updike Brothers Farms on Quaker Road put it somewhat philosophically the other day when he commented, "It's a little better after last weekend's storms, but not much. The only thing that has saved our corn crop is our irrigation system, and that cost us plenty of extra money this year." (see photo, page 8).

Walter B. Jefferson Jr., speaking for the Princeton Water Company, said that Princetonians have reacted to the company's pleas—and lowered the community's usage to a "normal" pumpage of around 2,000,000 gallons daily, "and the recent rains have even helped a number of lawns a bit. However, the showers have been too variable to do overall good—and we're still nine inches below normal for the year."

July's rainfall hit 1.23 inches—far below the normal of 4.06 for this area—and it was an extremely hot month, but cool air has set in now for a change for the better. And, quite happily, the 30-day forecast from Washington calls for drought-breaking rains during August along with "unusually low temperatures through the month."

"REALIZATION OF A DREAM". Stressing that ground-breaking time is no time for speech-making, Judge A. Dayton Oliphant nonetheless took a few moments before Monday evening's shovel duties at the site of the new YMCA-YWCA building on Bayard Lane to call the occasion "the realization of a dream." He told a gathering of 75-plus that the $537,861 YW structure will offer Princetonians a variety of beneficial opportunities, though he said "we must not let our youth down" by failing in an already-chaired of the board of trustees of the YMCA-YWCA Corporation, for one of many ground-breaking pictures were (left to right) Kenneth B. "D-DAY" DELAYED

Reservoir Fate In Doubt. Originally scheduled to convene in Trenton last week to make decisions affecting the proposed Stony Brook reservoir, the New Jersey Senate Committee on Revision and Amendment of Laws decided instead to postpone its final report until mid-August, thus leaving proponents and opponents of the plan holding their breath for another 10 days. Sen. Wayne Dumont Jr., chairman of the group, said he and his colleagues must complete thorough field trips and read "reams of testimony" before reaching any conclusions.

Of significance, the senator pointed out that the committee "must be prepared to make a recommendation" to the Senate when it is called back August 19 to act on gubernatorial appointments. The recommendation, he indicated, will be concerned with an acceptable water supply program for the entire state, including an opinion regarding the controversial Stony Brook plan. In all probability, the committee's report will determine whether or not endorsement of the Stony Brook reservoir goes on November's ballot in referendum form.

By "reams of testimony," Sen. Dumont referred to the statements made for and against legislation to build reservoirs in the Raritan River Basin (at Spruce Run as well as Stony Brook) which were presented at four long public hearings before his committee. By thorough field trips, he meant a series of close looks at such "possible water sites" as Wallpack Bend and Tocks Island, which began this Wednesday.

Realizing that the water supply hassle is fraught with political implications, the senator admitted that no plan may be worked out in time for placement on the ballot—and, therefore, the Legislature might do well to tap the veterans guarantee loan fund for $5,000,000 to finance a stop-gap project for taking water from the Raritan's south branch for storage in Round Valley. Residents in the Stony Brook area of Princeton Township, incidentally, were discussing a "Dumont for Governor" written campaign movement that could be a "dead" one by August 19—because they believe Sen. Dumont has given the problem more careful thought than Gov. Meyner or Sen. Malcolm Forbes, the official gubernatorial candidates.

New Alarm Sounded. The Stony Brook-Millstone Watersheds

Association, which has fought the Stony Brook reservoir proposal ever since it was announced last spring by the New Jersey Water Resources Advisory Committee, issued a pair of hotly worded news releases this week and also sent a three-page newsletter to its membership, warning, "Look-out! Here comes that big dam proposal again!" In part, the statements appeared to be sharp answers to releases by George F. Smith, chairman of the advisory committee who has preceded and followed his group's 13-page summation to Sen. Dumont's senate committee with observations supporting his views.

Calling attention to "a danger which is quietly, secretively gathering new force," leaders of the watersheds association asserted that "the Smith committee has not yet given up its unrealistic designs on our Stony Brook." To underscore this point, they cautioned: "The lights of Pennington may yet twinkle on the per-phery of a wasteland of rotting, smelling mud-flats, if the local people drowse over the situation."

The watershed spokesmen reminded their followers of two salient points which "were not given the sharp emphasis they deserved" at the recent public hearings: (1) that the usable yield of Stony Brook is too small to be of significance to downstream users some 30 miles away and (2) that local Mercer County watershed will soon use all the available water that this small watershed can produce. Elaborating on the first point, they noted that water stored in a big reservoir for dry-season delivery at points miles away is likely to dewindle away, both in impoundment and in transmission into the needy distances, through "the insidious forces of evaporation, transpiration and seepage at the very moments when most badly needed."

The acid test of a water supply reservoir's worth is whether it can produce the water demanded of it in a series of dry years, such as this year, the watershed leaders argued. "But can a shallow, sprawling skillet like this one (the Stony Brook reservoir), monstrous and land-devouring, hold enough water to wet the whistles of industrial North Jersey?" They concluded: "We are still of the firm opinion that thorough investigations should precede a final judgment on any water supply project."

Sieve or Rain Barrel? Echoing the sentiments of his cohorts, Paul VanWegen, president of the watershed association, had this to say about the $14,000,000 plan which would include the Stony Brook reservoir near Princeton:
"Until the necessary data have been produced and assembled, we cannot tell whether this proposal more closely resembles a colossal sieve, a huge mud-pie, an enormous French drain losing effective force en route in long streambed transmission, or the great and effective rain barrel its proponents claim it will be."

"Yet this committee continues to present us with this shapeless blob and has, moreover, the strange impudence to expect us to vote on it as if it were a realistic proposition. It has shut its ears and locked its minds against anything except its own eccentric plan. We trust that other communities in New Jersey will not be plagued as we mittee's sudden and ill-conceived

Jesse James' Last Ride?

Jesse James Bush, a 53-year-old culprit from Little Rocky Hill, was sentenced Tuesday evening to three months in the county workhouse for drunk driving. In addition, the defendant was charged with $25 court costs and separated from his driver's license for a period of 10 years.

Jesse James, who admitted he "drinks a little bit every day," was classified an "habitual violinist" because he was convicted of the same charge in 1940 — 17 years back — and a reckless driving complaint in 1938. In his car, investigators found a half-gallon jug of wine on the back seat and a fifth of wine in the glove compartment.

Jesse James, apparently, has taken his last ride.

In direct contrast, Mr. Smith declared this week that his committee has prepared a statewide water plan comprehensive to the point of meeting New Jersey's agricultural, residential and economic water needs until the year 2000. The first phase of the program—now before Sen. Dumont's committee—would solve the water problems of Northern and Central Jersey for a period of seven years. Subsequent stages of the master plan, which the committee anticipates implementing in two years, are now the subject of intensive engineering study and will be presented to the state in detail as each phase is completed.

"Any attempt to present all the details of an all-encompassing program at one time would result in the same confusion that has ultimately defeated every water program presented in New Jersey over the past 50 years," Mr. Smith contended. "The committee is also acutely aware of the vital time factor, when every moment delays in initiating a solution means untold hardships during periods of drought. The plan now before the Legislature, the result of years of expert engineering studies and analysis, heretofore beset by frustration, has been culled, weighed, evaluated and by every known yardstick put to test and is ready for Legislative action."

TOWNSHIP FATALITY

No. 4 This Year. Police Chief George Gurisic, 29, of Rocky Hill, is awaiting mandatory "death by auto" proceedings this week before the Mercer County grand jury as a result of his participation Saturday in Princeton Township's fourth fatal accident of 1957. He was released on his own recognizance pending court action.

Vernon Lockhart, 3, son of Mr.
and Mrs. Richard Lockhart, 331 Witherspoon Street, died in Princeton Hospital at 2:35 p.m.
Saturday of injuries sustained three hours earlier when he reportedly ran into the left side of Chief Gurisic's car. The driver told Patrolman Fred Porter of the Township police department that the child dashed into his vehicle from the public playground on Witherspoon, two blocks from the youngster's home.

UNIVERSITY PLAYERS

(Note: A review of "Thieves' Carnival" by Jean Anouilh appears on page 10 of this week's issue. The production continues nightly through this Saturday at Murray Theatre.)

Sean O'Casey Work Next, "Shadow of a Gunman" by Sean O'Casey will be the University Players' next-to-last production at Murray Theatre, running Tuesday, August 13, through Saturday, August 17, at 8:30 p.m. "Shadow of a Gunman" is set in the Ireland of 1920. It is the story of ordinary people caught in the frightening cross-currents of the Irish revolutionary movement and the ruthless measures of force used to suppress it.

The play depicts great events magnifying and bringing to light some of the best and worst elements in men and women who are faced with reality. "Shadow of a Gunman" also is filled with the giant comic sense that pervades O'Casey's poetic plays, one of the most pleasing elements in the work of a controversial playwright.

The role of Davoren, the poet-dreamer who lets people think he is a revolutionary in hiding, will be played by Donald Moffat. Mr. Moffat scored as Captain Shover in "Heartbreak House" and with a magnificent performance as Lorca's "Don Perlimpin." Lelia Barry is cast as Minnie, the girl who believes in Davoren's reputation. She has been seen as Ellie Dunn in "Heartbreak House" and as the first sprite in "Don Perlimpin." Ralph Williams, seen as the Doctor in "The Enchanted" and Henry in "The Skin of Our Teeth" heads the supporting cast.

Philip Minor is directing "Shadow of a Gunman." Earlier in the season he staged "Streetcar

BUCKS PLAYHOUSE

Summer's No. 1 Comeback. Probably the season's top theatre news this week concerns the return to the stage of a great favorite of pre-World War II films, Frances Farmer. Making her first appearance before an audience in 14 years, she will portray the enigmatic Mrs. Madrigal in End Bagnold's literate comedy, "The Chalk Garden," at the Bucks County Playhouse.

Featured with Miss Farmer, in a play which delighted McCarter Theatre patrons as a vehicle for Judith Anderson and Kathleen Nesbitt last spring, will be Audrey Ridgwell, talented standby for Gladys Cooper in the New York production, and Arthur Malet. The show will run for one week beginning next Monday evening.

"The Love of Four Colonels," a so-so comedy by Peter Ustinov, will complete its two-week engagement at America's oldest country theatre with four performances this week end—at 8:30 p.m. Thursday, Friday and Saturday as well as the usual Saturday matinee. Stars of "Colonels" are Julia Meeke and Gene Rayburn, popular TV personalities who have a lot of fun on the stage but don't do much to improve its stature.

MUSIC CIRCUS

"On The Town" Next. Leonard Bernstein's hiting, popular musical comedy, "On The Town," featuring "a spectacular ice show," will be the next attraction at St. —Continued on Page 6

THEIRS IS A MEMORABLE AFFAIR: Cary Grant and Deborah Kerr are the co-stars in Leo McCarey's "An Affair to Remember," high-comedy romance which will continue at the Princeton Playhouse through next Tuesday.

News Of The Theatres

John Terrill's Music Circus in Lumberville. Opening Tuesday night, the gay production will continue for two weeks, showing once each evening (except Monday) and twice on Saturdays. "South Pacific," considered by many to be the greatest of the Rodgers and Hammerstein musicals, will conclude its two-week run at the Music Circus this Sunday evening. Featured in the cast are Mimi Kelly, Paul Ukena and Frank Maxwell.

THE PLAYHOUSE

An Affair to Remember (August 8-13) is just that—whether you recall Leo McCarey's 1939 hit, "Love Affair," or see it for the first time in this lush CinemaScope reworking by the same skilled director. The story, though make-believe and none-too-convincingly written, is an appealing one—the tale of a playboy artist and an ex-night club singer who fall in love en route to marry different partners and eventually wind up together after near-disastrous complications. The physical production is superb, including wonderful color treatment of the French Riviera, an ocean liner and a great deal of New York City. The title song represents top-flight support, as do such notable secondary actors as Neva Patterson and Cathleen Nesbitt (both seen and admired on McCarey's stage last fall) and Richard Denning.

But the movie's greenest laurels belong to Cary Grant, Deborah Kerr and Mr. McCarey. With restraint and honesty, the two principals run the gamut from high comedy to tragedy playing slick-fiction characters who aren't particularly worthwhile human beings, and they manage to prevail beautifully due to their tremendous ability. Their personalities triumph over a script which might defeat less accomplished talents. The director's deft touch, untied since 1932, is still one of Hollywood's most respected—a good reason why "Affair" has been received with unusually vigorous new life.

Silk Stockings (August 14-20), second consecutive cinematic production at the Playhouse, reworks the wonderful "Ninotchka" story—with lavish color, wide screen, expert dancing and Cole Porter music but without Greta Garbo. "Ninotchka" really isn't "Ninotchka" without Miss Garbo, primarily because comely Cyd Charisse isn't Miss Garbo; yet, "Silk Stockings" is something quite special in its own right. This new version of an old tale—a tale which retains a certain freshness in spite of its age—is gay and bright and fast-paced, and, incidentally, is probably the best musical comedy Hollywood has turned out so far this year.

Fortunately, "Silk Stockings" doesn't pretend to repeat a Garbo-style "Ninotchka." Its emphasis is placed on dancing—performed elegantly and engagingly by Fred Astaire, Miss Charisse and Janis Paige—and on music-written sprightly and pleasingly, if not significantly, by Mr. Porter. Reuben Mamoulian, director of a number of other great screen musicals, continues to succeed with this production, while Robert Branner's photographic efforts in the Paris location are stunning. And, for required comic touches between songs and dances, Miss Paige, Peter Lorre and George Tobias do an admirable job.

LOVE FROM HELENA

One for Free. Next time you run out of Helena Rubenstein's Silk Sheen Hair Spray, don't run to your next-door neighbor for a cup. Go instead to Thorne's Drug Store, 20 Nassau, where during the month of August you may buy any one of ten Helena Rubenstein preparations and get a companion preparation free.

For example, in the Hair Spray deal you pay $1.35 and get the spray plus a bottle of Color-Tone Shampoo. Value: $1.73. If you buy waterproof mascara you get a free jar of the Eye-Cream Special. Pay $1.25 for this $2.50 value and save yourself 50%.

You'll also save 50% if you pay the $1.50 price for both the Nudit for the Face (with Super-Finish, whatever that may be. Maybe it makes your face heat-and-alcohol-proof like a table top) and its companion, Moonlight Mist Eau de Parfum. This fragrance, says the Rubenstein copy-writer, "meets love halfway." You take it from there.

Another special is a jar of pasteurized face cream, (an all-purpose cream), plus a jar of skin lotion special that's designed for dry skin. Those, two, a $2.13 value, will cost only $1.50 during August.

Pay $2.25 for Rubenstein's Perfume Spray Deodorant and pick up some White Magnolia Talc without extra cost. Silk-N-Mite Make-up goes along with Silk-Tone Liquid Rouge, a $1.88 value for $1.25, or a saving of 33%. (If you have any complaints about these percentages, file them in triplicate with the Rubenstein accountant.)

This Christmas in August will continue at Thorne's through the entire month, and of course there are other items besides the ones we mentioned above.

Pro Movies. To make home movies with truly professional competence, Mall Camera suggests the new Bauer 808, an 8mm camera which has all the features required for professional results in home movie-making.

It has a lens (f 1.9 Schneider Xenoplan 13 mm universal focus) coupled to an electric exposure meter, four speeds plus single frame action, and a film transport indicator. The built-in electric exposure meter automatically sets the lens for perfect exposure after you line up the indicators in the view finder. This operation has convinced Bauer that even an amateur will have consistently perfect results right from the start.

Bell and Howell presents to the slide public a new high-impact (drop it from the third floor) plastic case that contains the 300 Projector. Case is wine red with ivory leather, and the projector inside shows a 50% larger picture, and has a new slide-cooling system. Depending on the model you select you may have an automatic magazine for slides or a slide-choosing mechanism.

Disneyland or Valley Forge

These two great American shrines are among dozens of scenes on the Viewmaster reels that we found in an afternoon of browsing at Mall Camera, Princeton Shopping Center. Viewmasters themselves are not new, of course, but their presence at Mall Camera is, and if your second-grader forgot to load the camera when he took all those pictures at Disneyland, you can catch up by buying him the reels and a Viewmaster to show them in.

There are also various anthropological studies of Cherokee Indians, Shoshone Indians and the Lone Ranger. Television critics, of course, want the numerous reels of Mouseketeers and classical scholars will probably enjoy Banuli.

Historians in the family may choose from Mount Vernon, scenes of Philadelphia and Valley Forge, Cypress Gardens, Florida and a vast selection of scenes from California.

Mall Camera sells the reels at the standard price of three for $1.25.

Not to be outdone, Graflex has a new slide projector, too. This one is automatic, 500-watt and blower-cooled. And Argus has made a little battery-operated viewer that will take either 35mm or 2 1/2 inch square transparencies. You may buy a transformer if you'd rather plug in.

Expanding its large line of hobby supplies, Mall Camera now carries some sporting goods. Take some forged steel horse-shoes on your vacation, or a quiver-full of arrows and a good bright target. Stay-at-homes can work over a badminton bird (sets from $9.35) or go inside when it rains to play ping-pong. Croquet mallets and balls are good for a hot afternoon when energies don't rise to badminton. Mall Camera has all these.

Flat on the Floor. Some of the handiwork modern rugs you've seen in quite a while have come to Nassau Interiors from India where they were hand-woven and hand-tied. They measure about four by six feet and are priced at $59.50 and $69.50.

Snuggly woven of wool, they have backgrounds that are largely natural in color—a kind of oatmeal—in a weave that will remind you of the best American Indian blankets. Rising from this flat, tight weave are designs in hand-knotted tufts that look like a high-pile carpet.

TYPICAL DROUGHT SCENE: Farmer Sewell Updike, part-owner of the 186-acre Updike Brothers Farms on Quaker Road, found his plight typical of that plaguing-damaged Princeton area farmers this week. His acres of potatoes are destined to show a poor yield and only 20 of his 35 acres of corn are growing well because they have been irrigated with Stony Brook water. Pipe in background represents $2600 addition to irrigation system required by current drought. (Town Topics Photo by Photo Group)

It's New To Us

For example, you'll find dark browns, rust and cream colored squares, six inches in size, arranged at wide intervals on a natural background. Narrow stripes in the same colors and in the same tufted texture band the rug at each end. You may have this same pattern in white with black, raspberry and pen green but the russet shades seem to be more harmonious.

On another rug, natural-colored tufts have been used in an oil-over pattern with tan, brown and rust tufts at each end. Here again is the alternative color-scheme in white, black, green and raspberry.

The most dramatic of all the Indian rugs is one done in Harlequin diamonds—gray, gold, red, green—with a pointed diamond scallop at each end instead of a straight selvedge. Colored tassels decorate each point of the scallops. All the other rugs have two-inch natural fringe.

These are first-rate modern rugs, at home in any modern room and so durable that they will probably outlive your house.

Budget cotton rugs, washable, are $35 for a three-by-six-and-one-half size. These "Architectural Group" rugs have designs of line and square that may remind you of Mondrian. The lines and squares are arranged in browns and blacks, or turquoise, rust, black and beige. If your taste in modern runs to geometrical patterns and architectural forms you'll find these colorful rugs extremely useful and economical. There are seven patterns to choose from, and you can have a smaller three by five for $24 if that's a better fit for your purse and floor.

Soup du Jour. Today's soup is probably a cold jellied one, suited to heat and humidity. Plan a luncheon around some of the new summer soups on the shelves of the Nassau Delicatessen, Palmer Square West.

Try Pinesbridge Farm's jellied clam Madrilene with champagne, or a jellied green turtle made with cherry. There is a claret Madrilene and a sherry Madrilene, too.

S. S. Pierce has a true beef jellied consommé without auxiliary flavors, and White Rose makes Coassome Arctique which is just pure beef, nothing else. Aunt Leah, whoever she may be, has a frozen beet borstch, condensed. The beet appears again in S. S. Pierce's beet aspic which you can use in a salad for unsuspecting guests who expect tomato.

The cookie industry considers summer, too, and provides tiny one-inch lemon cookies or chocolate chip cookies to munch with lunch. These are by Charlotte Charles in a 14-oz. tin.

Fahlsen, the West German house, has a three pound square tin called "Happy Week-end" for you to take when you go away for a visit. It holds a little of everything, and its ten-inch square tin is certainly reusable for something.

Summer also calls for pastel petit fours, and the Del has these in 10 oz. and 20 oz. boxes.

Spice Islands adds spice to the summer cooking season with a new barbecue sauce, and a five-ounce shaker of Old Hickory Smoked Salt. There is also a shaker of shredded green onions with a wide holed top so you can shake the onion into your salad without the tears of chopping them up.

tion the following morning. Actually, Miroslav Kriz, 46 Bayard Lane, spotted the fire shortly before 5 o'clock and notified Borough authorities. By 5:01, Mrs. Roberts was busy calling for help, though nothing could save the garage and vehicle at that point. It wasn't a good hour for a fire—and Mr. and Mrs. Roberts didn't want it at any hour—but the early-morning blaze did afford Princeton's volunteer firefighters with an opportunity to hear the new signal atop the new Harrison Street firehouse, not to mention the chance to answer their first general alarm blaze from the new Hook & Ladder headquarters (occupied just a week ago).

THE CHANGING SCENE
Buick Out, Foreign Cars Inc. The Buick franchise operated by Delwin Gregory at 388 Nassau Street since 1952 has been terminated at his own decision, he has informed General Motors. There was indication this week when a new Buick dealer would be assigned the Princeton area.

The display room and show at the Nassau Street location have already been leased to Foreign Cars Limited, Hilton Realty Company of 234 Nassau Street (with which Mr. Gregory is now associated in a sales capacity) announced that a long-term lease for the premises has been signed. A number of models which the new firm will handle are already on display.

Franchises for imported automobiles already assigned to Foreign Cars Limited include Jaguar, Hillman, Triumph, Borgward, Morgan, Sunbeam and Volvo. Others are expected to be added to this line in the months ahead; for information on one of the makes the new agency will handle, see advertisement, page 4.

Peter J. Green, Jr. of Plainfield, active in securities and investments in New York, is president of the new firm, Owen F. James, who has been in the automotive field for the past 12 years, is general manager. Mr. James has been handling imported cars in Plainfield since 1953 and prior to that was with International Motors in Los Angeles.

The display space at 363 Nassau Street will be tripled by the new tenants, with construction planned to start as soon as effects of the cement strike can be overcome. A formal opening in late September is planned.

Mr. James said this week that a number of innovations are planned in the public interest. Among them will be weekly clinics in the maintenance and operation of Mercedes Benz and Jaguar models. "Do-it-yourself" clinics for owners of all makes of imported cars are also planned, with stalls and tools for rent and mechanical instruction provided without charge.

SUBDIVISION SOLD
Hilton Handles Transaction, A 20-acre subdivision, located on property formerly owned by Fied-

mont Nursery off Mill Road in West Windsor Township, was purchased this week by Rose Hill Farms Inc., a development firm now building several projects in northern New Jersey. J. B. Ford Inc. sold the acreage, with Hilton Realty Company of Princeton handling the transaction. No purchase price was announced.

Starting this week, Rose Hill Farms will construct two model homes—one a four-bedroom Cape Cod and the other a three-bedroom split-level structure. In all, 18 home sites will be developed, two new houses scheduled for ground-breaking every other week. Both models will sell for approximately $23,500.

A representative of the purchasing firm reported that the Cape Cod will include a living room with fireplace, dining room, fully equipped kitchen, two baths, full basement, breezeway and garage, while the split-level will boast the same features, plus den and powder room instead of the fourth bedroom. The subdivision, he said, will seek a suburban atmosphere on a non-traffic street (tentatively named Piedmont Drive) and will have a bus stop linking it with the West Windsor school system.

Recently, Rose Hill Farms has been busy completing similar projects in Plainfield, Union and various other north Jersey communities. Its biggest development to date is a 71-home subdivision currently being built in the Plainfield area.

News Of The Theatres

Farce by Anouilh. The University Players this week are indulging in the annual wild and woolly exercise, this time "Thieves Carnival" by Jean Anouilh. Most of the Players do their very best according to their own lights, but the farce might use a bit more coordination.

Or perhaps it mightn't, since it's a free hand treatment by Anouilh, his first bit of importance. The aura of thievery, and of deception and truth, is very lightly ascribed.

Still, when there are nice efforts and noble efforts, discommodulation of effect is possible. Joseph Bird and Philip Minor have a happy time and make long stretches of laughter; they frequently do what comes to mind to win the guffaw (successfully), but with little relation to the problem of total presentation. The two, who are most experienced in comedy at Murray Theatre, are two thirds of a team of thieves who find themselves enjoying the part of pretending Spanish grandees. They thrive.

On the other hand, Donald Moffat exemplifies consistency in characterization, as the English Lord Edgard. Mr. Moffat contributes lovely touches for a fine performance in a somewhat lower key.

Joyce Hines tries very well to keep hold on the carnival which she runs as Lady Hurf, and Dora Landy makes an attractive and possible Eva, the young widow. Michael Ryan and William Pierce rendered valiant efforts as the damn-fool English gentlemen father-and-son, but here at elsewhere, the effects are better-skeller.

On opening night, the fomenting tenor of Ralph Williams and Lella Barry were most endearing, but nearly irrelevant and often awkward when seen against the background of farce. Admitting that they have badly balanced roles, they can do better.

William Nix was haunting as the harlequin-musician, as was the original music by Frank Lewin. This in turn was still another impact which was both pleasantly varied and confused. There were whirlwinds of movement (too much for the stage at times), but it is also true that many of the most charming moments of the evening came from the dances of Ray Harrison and Mario Siletti's directorial accomplishments of stylization.

"Thieves' Carnival" as the Players do it has gaiety, color and wit. There's surely fun for all though the matter is wippy.

Might a play involving the inroads of thieves among a pack of deceivers and one romantic girl receive better treatment? Probably not, because to meet the requirements of mainly English farce in a southern France watering place (France?) would be impossible and wasteful for the Players.

They do better having fun in a crazy show. It's short, swift and full of laughter; more serious things can wait for the weeks ahead.

Question of the Week

Question: What is your idea of "the perfect man?"
Location: In and near the Princeton Swim Club.

Donna Wilkinson, 32 Shady Brook Lane, Elmira College-bound Princeton High graduate: A man with money, position and a good physique—and, oh yes, blue eyes, blond hair and six feet tall. Naturally, a new sports car would be helpful. In other words, the typical American man.

Mrs. James S. Norris, Arretton Road, housewife: My husband—for me, he's perfect!

Yvonne Brandt, Trenton YWCA, bookkeeper in Princeton: My idea of the perfect man is a man who places his own family before anything else. That's all that need be said about the subject as far as I'm concerned.

Mrs. Santa Vicino, 11 Woodland Drive, homemaker: What else can I say? The father of my four children! In other words, someone who really enjoys watching youngsters develop and doesn't consider it beneath his dignity to change an occasional diaper.

Dotty Mulligan, Edinborough Road, Princeton High junior: I really shouldn't comment—I haven't met him yet! However I think personality is a key asset. That, of course, includes a way with women. Good looks help the cause, too.

Mrs. George W. Good, 56 Littlebrook Road, housewife: Ike Eisenhower—especially after his press conference last week during which he expressed his wonderful ideas on how to stop smoking. I sincerely mean it—Ike's perfect.

Ruby Jackson, Princeton Inn, waitress: My answer is quite simple. There's no such thing as the perfect man.

Mrs. Katherine Bradley, Princeton-Lawrenceville Road, secretary: The perfect man, in my opinion, ought to boast four essential ingredients in proper balance—that is, about 25 per cent of each. I'm talking about charm, class, sex and brains. If he's got all four of these in the right amount, he's the perfect man for me!

NEW ASCOP PLANT NEARING COMPLETION: Timothy Donath, plants and facilities manager for Applied Science Corporation of Princeton, is shown this week just prior to inspecting the company's latest addition — a 77,000-square foot production plant four miles from its main offices at Princeton Junction. The plant's two walls facing Mr. Donath, the "scenic front side" of the building, are made of brick, while the other two walls consist of cement block for easy expansion, indicating ASCOP's plans for the future as well as functional thoughts for present possibilities. Having recently supervised the layout of a new 10,000-square foot western district office in California, Mr. Donath also performed the same task at the new plant here. For more details, see Topics of the Town. (Photo by Photo Group)

Topics Of The Town

DECADE OF PROGRESS

Post-War Success Story. In Princeton, as in no other town of comparable size, success stories tend to be the rule rather than the exception. Individuals and their firms have made a habit of occupying the national—even international—spotlight for many years, particularly since the end of World War II.

The tales of success are varied, ranging from small to large in importance, but probably none has been more fascinating than that written by the Applied Science Corporation of Princeton (ASCOP). Steady growth has symbolized the electronics company since President Thomas C. Robert and several colleagues founded it back in January, 1947, and it has typified Princeton progress for the past decade.

An outgrowth of pioneering wartime research at Princeton University, ASCOP — from the start — specialized in designing and producing equipment "that can gather and handle large amounts of information (data) rapidly, accurately, automatically and economically." Most of the firm's highly technical work has been aimed at military defense problems, being used for testing and evaluation on missile and aircraft development projects (i.e., the Nike and Boeing KC-135 projects), but, of late, private industry has shown interest in ASCOP's products. For example, the company's data-gathering and handling system has specific application in the monitoring and controlling of pipelines, water works systems and continuous process plants such as oil field and refinery processes.

Little wonder, then, that ASCOP's first offices at 120 Nassau Street have long since been vacated in favor of a booming plant at Princeton Junction, plus district offices in Van Nuys, Calif., and Cocoa Beach, Fla., and a production plant in Trenton, Little wonder, also, that ASCOP's first two full-time employees at the Nassau Street location have been doubled several times — 203 by January, 1956, a jump to 435 just 12 months later and now to 700.

New Building Significant. This week, a visitor inspecting ASCOP's Princeton facilities (which include the recently acquired Heilich building and rented space in Bohren's building at the Junction, and room for accounting offices on the State Road) could find bustling activity and a real spirit of enthusiasm for the job being accomplished — but also find crowded quarters. The area of 50,591 square feet simply isn't adequate for 700 persons working hard to improve on last year's sales of $3,570,000 (they were only $20,700 in 1947).

Having foreseen such a situation, the company last January purchased a 150-acre tract of farm and woodland at Locust Corners, four miles south of the Junction on the Princeton-Hightstown Road, and broke ground for a new $1,500,000 production plant in January. This week, as the Austin Construction Company of Roselle, N. J., continued to perform ahead of schedule, ASCOP announced it will begin occupying the new building next month and complete the move by late October.

According to Timothy Donath, plants and facilities manager, 77,000 square feet of building space at Locust Corners will almost double the entire ASCOP operation, which now amounts to $1,697 (counting non-Princeton as well as Princeton buildings). The production department and supporting services, requiring some 480 employees, will be shifted to the new plant, while researchers, development engineers and administrators will be given a great deal more breathing space at the Junction. Total ASCOP employment is expected to hit 850 by year's end.

The large land area surrounding the new production plant will provide ample room for future expansion while still retaining the rural atmosphere and characteristics of the farm portions of East Windsor Township. Outside features will include a 600-stall parking lot and a handsome baseball field, complete with steel backstop, for employee games as well as home contests for the ASCOP men's and girls' softball teams.

Cool Air and Cold Cuts. Of the 77,000 square feet in the new structure, Mr. Donath explained, 62,000 will be used for production and such related services as shipping and receiving, stock, quality control and production design. The rest of the space will be taken up by a reception area, cafeteria, locker room, rest rooms, a first aid room, personnel office, boiler room and telephone equipment room.

As might be expected in a plant devoted to up-to-the-minute electronics device, modern design will keynote the entire ASCOP production building. Seven big two-way units, providing cool air in the summer and warm air from the heating system in the winter, will reach every corner of the plant, while the fully equipped cafeteria will even boast a do-it-yourself type machine which dispenses a selection of bread slices and cold cuts, leaving it up to the purchaser to concoct a sandwich of his own choice.

Mobile partition walls, now in successful use throughout ASCOP's Junction plant, will be installed to a large extent in the —Continued on Page 14

Ham's There, Beef's Not

To the Editor of TOWN TOPICS:

Will you settle a slight disagreement for me which only you can settle?

My good wife insists that your wonderful photo of last week, showing calves grazing within a fence on Palmer Square, is as real as Wyatt Earp, Billy the Kid and Roy Rogers rolled into one.

Though I'm not always skeptical, I've got a hunch your cattle shot is about as real as the Lone Ranger.

Real or not, hats off to cameraman Hank Chachowski for the best local picture of the year!

J. DANIEL BOONE

Ed. Note: Sometime Skyepte Boone is quite right. The photo—a departure from TOWN TOPICS' normal procedure—is a composite of two separate pictures, and thanks to Mr. Chachowski's deft touch, it fooled many others along with Mrs. Boone. One unforgotten spokesman for PMI, which inspired the montage when it erected the corral-like fence around Palmer Square's east side, suggested Black Angus cattle might have been used. We'll note the Nassau Tavern's Wednesday night buffets by intimating the beef is now homegrown.

Voters' Ignorance Scored

To the Editor of TOWN TOPICS:

The survey conducted by the New Jersey Poll (TOWN TOPICS, August 4-10, p. 16) intends to show where the voters "stand" with regard to Governor Meyer and Mr. Forbes. Had Mickey Mantle and Woody the Woodpecker been the candidates, the same utterances could have referred to them, and quite as appropriately.

Your poll may well be considered a success, if in place of its stated purpose ("to portray voter reaction to each candidate's strong and weak points"), it really intended to portray the general political ignorance of the New Jersey voter. This assortment of candid testimony may come pretty close to convincing the onlooker that now is the time for violent overthrow of the capitalist system.

NO, IT'S NOT BONNIE OLD ENGLAND: It's bonnie old Princeton, and the fact that mailman Ernest W. Hughes Jr. is delivering copies of Town Topics from a vehicle with a right-hand drive is merely a reflection of American ingenuity. The U. S. Post Office Department now uses such British-style trucks (but on the right side of the road) to save time and energy, and the Princeton office has had four of them for rural routes 11, 14, 19 and 20 since June. Postman Hughes, in his third year with the local office, says it's easy to learn how to operate the "different" trucks—and he points out the safety belt, which keeps drivers from tumbling from their perches.

new plant, enabling functional changes and future-growth adaptability. Other standout features will be an extensive water storage system (including a 228-foot deep well with a flow of 600-plus gallons per minute, a 125-foot water tower with 100,000-gallon storage tank and a 150,000-gallon standpipe reservoir), a special "satellite" telephone system for a phenomenal number of intra-office calls (the "satellite" will be automatic, connected to ASCOP's only switchboard at the Junction) and, of course, soothing piped music for better work conditions.

Apparently, nothing has been forgotten as ASCOP's leaders prepare for the next expansion phase of their ever-expanding business. That's how success stories are written, and there's every reason to believe that the stylish production plant at Locust Corners represents another successful chapter in the ASCOP story.

New Headquarters for ORC. Opinion Research Corporation will be the first public opinion firm to build in the 66-acre tract north of the Shopping Center, which has been set aside for the development of Princeton Research Park. Dilman M. K. Smith, president of ORC, said construction will begin in the very near future.

Some 200 research organizations currently located in other parts of the community will eventually move to the site, where more than 500,000 square feet of building space are planned. Among the other firms which will move to the park on the outskirts of town are Gallup and Robinson, Inc., and the newly-formed Princeton Panel.

Fulmer and Bowers are the architects for the Opinion Research building. Lewis C. Bowers and Sons have been designated as the builders.

CHAIRMEN PICKED

GOP Leaders Selected. Chairmen of standing committees within the Republican Club of Princeton for the year 1957-58 were announced this week by H. K. Sander, recently elected president of the GOP organization. James S. Thompson, 45 Parkside Drive, and R. L. VanCleave, 163 Jefferson Road, will serve as co-chairmen of the club's campaign committee, while Charles R. Erdman Jr., 20 Boudinot Street, will be chairman of the finance group. The program committee will be headed by Mrs. James McGilling, 20 North Stanworth Drive, and the publicity committee by B. E. Bergesen Jr., 196 State Road.

In addition to announcing the committee chairmen, Mr. Sander said the Women's Club of Princeton, the Young Republican Club of Princeton and his organization are working together on plans for the coming year on what will be made public in the near future.

Legionnaires to Meet. Princeton Post-76 American Legion, and the Charles W. Robinson Post of Princeton will send representatives to Legion conventions on the county and national levels. The 10th annual Mercer County Convention is scheduled for August 17, while the national meeting will be held September 14-19 at Atlantic City.

Advance registration for the county convention, which will be held at Hamilton Township Post 31, has been running far in excess of previous years. The convention will be highlighted by the election of County officers. Many state and national American Legion officials have already accepted invitations.

Zombi Jamboree Friday. The Town Club of Princeton will sponsor a Zombi Jamboree dance on Banberger's roof at the Princeton Shopping Center. The affair is scheduled for Friday at 9 p.m.

Miss Mary Snyder of Trenton and Sue Sullivan of Princeton have been named co-chairmen for the dance. Members of the Town Club are urged to attend the "stag or drag" affair and all young adults of this area are invited. Refreshments, novelty songs and dances will be featured.

YMCA Camp Food Grows. More than $1,000 in contributions were received last week by the YMCA in this area for a new YMCA Camp Wilson, where boys from this area spent many vacations in former years, was washed by the 1955 floods.

The new YMCA camp will be—Continued on Page 18

DARE WE TAKE THE RISK?

(An excerpt from the Policy Statement on Nuclear Tests—United States Section of the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom)

We are against production, testing and use of nuclear weapons by any and all governments.

We are not scientists and we are not competent to offer scientific judgments on the extent of the danger. But we can make moral judgements. We believe that as long as there is any question of danger to life anywhere, or real or possible menace to children yet unborn, no argument can justify such risks.

We believe, therefore, that we have to speak out against tests by our own government, and have a grave responsibility to do so. We recognize the risks involved or implied in our position but believe they are no greater than the risks our government is now taking on the side of death. For us there is no alternative. We will take our risk on the side of life and of all humanity.

FOOTBALL OUTLOOK—4
(This is the last of a series of four articles on Princeton's football prospects for the 1957 season.)

How Good Is Sapoch? Not one football fan in ten can train himself to watch a player who is not handling the ball. The fact that so much of the action will explode from a fullback's burst through guard, a halfback's dink off tackle or a passer fading to throw deep into the secondary, invariably catches the eye—some times against the watcher's will. Inhabitants of Palmer Stadium who can keep their attention centered on Princeton's square-set number 29 this fall will often find themselves richly repaid. Actually, many offensive plays find him pitching out or faking, so that he will be in the center of the spotlight momentarily. Now and then, he'll be the target for a pass from the tailback—as he was on ten successful attempts last season that were good for better than ten yards apiece and unexpectedly gave him team leadership in this department.

It is, however, as a blocker on offense and a linebacker on defense that captain Jack Sapoch excels, and that's when it is difficult to draw the eye away from the back in possession of the ball. The reward comes in the perfection of the scythe-like block—often good enough to account for two would-be tacklers simultaneously—or in the cat-like diagnosis of an opposing runner's intended path. Sapoch hits him as if drawn to the collision by a magnet.

In sharp contrast to most backs and therefore eligible ball-carriers, the captain of the 1957 Princeton team would rather tackle an opposing runner than run or pass himself. Understandably enough, it's this outlook that makes him such a sure-fire blocker. In the words of one of the Tigers' coaching staff, "Sapoch is happiest when he's knocking other guys down." Since the game amounts to that in its simplest terms—knocking the other team down so your man can score, or baring the opposition runner down so that he can't—it follows that Sapoch's extreme ability in this respect makes him invaluable.

Remember Mike Miles? In the modern era at Princeton (post World War I), the names of half a dozen quarterbacks stand out. Johnny Gorman and Dan Calkins of the 'twenties, Katz Kadish and Ken Sandbach of the '30s and George Chandler of the unbeaten teams of 1950 and '51. Oddly enough, the player to whom Sapoch is most similar (with the exception of Chandler) is not a quarterback but a fullback of the late 'twenties, Mike Miles.

Like Sapoch, Miles was a tower of strength as a defensive back, ranking also as a superior blocker. When he walked off the field on a chill, cloudy day in November, 1928, the sell-out Yale-Princeton crowd in the Stadium gave him a standing ovation to mark the end of a fine career.

It is probably unfair to Chandler, who became a highly-polished single-wing field general and a solid blocking back, to place him second to Sapoch. Chandler played ed here during the two-plateons era, and barring pass interceptions and punt returns, was never called on to tackle an opposing back.

Suffice it to say that Sapoch must plot the intricate strategy of Caldwell's single-wing system immediately after partaking in a series of jarring tackles that have helped grind the opposition's attack to a halt. A two-plateon quarterback was sitting on the bench, generally conferring with the coach, during such action on the field.

Man of Many Talents, Sapoch performs as many key services as it is possible to assign to one player. On offense, he plots and calls the entire sequence of plays, often is charged with the key block, handles the ball on all

First Group

As the accompanying explanation of Princeton's grading system in football shows, it's virtually impossible to earn a first group from the tough-minded Tiger coaching staff. But Captain Jack Sapoch got one perfect grade last fall. Here's how:

While the going was still close in the Harvard game, the Tigers' quarterback caught a pass from the Crimson's Harvard line and four steps later shook off two tacklers simultaneously. At the ten-yard stripe, he literally ran right over the safety man, knocking him down with the sheer force of impact and continuing into the end zone. He had literally provided his own interference.

Sapoch's extreme durability has given him the lead in time played in both his first two years on the varsity. Last fall, he saw action in 1,066 plays out of 1,320, as a sophomore. It was 1,015, again better than three out of every four every Saturday. Barring injury, he is sure to tie a modern Princeton record held by a handful of players by starting every one of the 27 games in his varsity career.

back-lateral keep plays—either running or pitching out. He is often the pass receiver on short pitches over the line.

Defensively, he is also the field general—calling the alignment on a basis of the opposition's formation and previous strategy, thus assuming a duty often assigned in the past to the other linebackers, the center. He backs up the left side of the line and is responsible for a sizeable area on pass defense.

In each of the last two seasons, Princeton has compiled a fine 7-and-2 record, winning more games than it had any right to on a basis of the material at hand and the strength of the opposition. Much of the credit for its surprise showing goes to Sapach, the 6-foot, 200-pounder who uses his head to call-henrich brilliantly and his brawn to knock the other guys down. If Princeton does the unexpected in 1957 and picks up all the marbles, it will be thanks primarily to the back who makes the wheels go round while rarely finding the spotlight.

SOFTBALL STANDOUT

Man With the Golden Arm. When the Princeton Community Softball League launches its 1957 playoffs Tuesday evening, Drake's Plumbing & Heating of Belle Mead will be the odds-on favorite to win with ease for two substantial reasons. One is the fact that the Plumbers went through their first 13 regular-season games without suffering a setback. The second is Bill Bergen, red-hot hurler who tossed all 13 victories.

That the Belle Mead entry captured these "lucky 13" tilts largely due to Bergen's rugged right arm is quite apparent, though the reasonably modest pitcher would be the last man on the front-running squad to say so. "We've got a good all-around team of about 15 guys—in fact, the finest all-around softball club I've ever seen," Bergen observed this week while looking forward to the pending playoffs. "Because of this, we're really got a great bunch."

The combination of an all-around squad and Bergen has Princeton's coaching staff grades every player on every play, based on long and searching examination of the motion pictures. Using the same system in vogue for decades in the classroom, marks are given from 1 (perfect) through 7 (abysmal failure.)

In the coaching staff's minds, a 2 is awarded for superlative performance, a 3 is average-plus and a 4 is satisfactory. A 5 is bad, 6 is a distinct error and 7 horrendous. To get an indication of how good Sapach is on a coldly-calculated review of his game action, his play as a sophomore against Yale (Princeton 13, Yale 0) brought him eight 2's, 53 3's and only eight 4's on offense. Defensively, he had three 2's, 41 3's, and only five 4's.

Last fall, Sapach had one of the top days of his career against Cornell, a topflight ball game in which Princeton prevailed, 28 to 20. Of 62 marks he got on offense that day, 60 were 2's or 3's; of 50 on defense, 52 were 3's or better.

In two seasons totalling over 2,000 yards, he has drawn only 11 6's. That is to say, he makes an error only one half of one percent of the time!

All-Ivy as a Junior. Sapach's ability won him recognition last season as a junior when he was an all-Ivy selection and a choice on the second all-East team. He'll do better than that this fall, of course, but chances are he will not draw sufficient attention to himself to earn All-American status. That's the lot of a single-wing quarterback, the guy who fakes on his handoffs to decoy the opposition and then blocks while another back pours through a big gap to glory.

At Ithaca last fall, for example, it was Sapach's block on the guard-trap play that sent fullback Fred Tiley hurtling through a huge hole for 47 yards to set up the first Princeton touchdown. Later, while Cornell was still threatening his solid block on a reverse sent wingback Ron Nelson 56 yards into the end zone for the Tigers' third TD.

The earlier articles in this series have all indicated a strong potential on Princeton's part in the 1957 football derby. The losses by graduation are smaller, the sophomore strength greater and the calibre of the hold-over ma-

Tomatoes! They're Great...

FROM THE GARDEN STATE

Pick up a bright red, plump New Jersey tomato...cut it in quarters...then take a big bite into this luscious, fresh vegetable...man, isn't it delicious?

One of the most popular foods in our country, the tomato has been grown here since 1871. Much of the development in new varieties has come as a result of research at the N. J. Agricultural Experiment Station at Rutgers, the State University. In fact, one of the finest tomatoes is named "Rutgers" after the University.

Of course, tomatoes are used as one of the most important commercial vegetable crops and are processed into many popular tomato products. New Jersey's tomatoes are favored all over the country.

Whenever you buy fruits and vegetables from your chain-store, supermarket or local grocer, ask the man: "Are they from Jersey?" Help yourself to the riches of the Garden State.

been a happy one. Such softball luminaries as Manager Ted Drake, batting above the .400 mark, have presented the Drake's nine with a healthy number of runs in each encounter to date. Then, to make sure of things, Bergen hasn't afforded the opposition many opportunities to catch up—or even challenge. In fact, the Plumbers have won almost every game by a margin of three or more runs.

The 26-year-old righthander's change-up has proved his No. 1 pitch this summer, but he also boasts a drop ball which moves at a sizzling clip, plus an effective curve and an occasionally-used rise ball. He has the happy tendency—for the Belle Meaders, at least—to beat down and become most tough-to-hit when the going is roughest.

A Somerville High graduate who "took up softball by chance in San Diego" during a Navy stint in 1953, Bergen has been on the mound ever since. Come what may next week, the current season has been by far his most memorable, thanks to his improved pitching ability and the well-jellied culture of the Drake's club. He has dazzled batters in the PCSL and, in addition, has won only one contest (tossing for a better-than-average Belle Mead firemen's team. To put a touch of icing on the cake, he has managed a .358 mark at the plate in the PCSL.

Along with opposing batters, fellow members of Drake's league-leading outfit hold Bergen in high respect. They have little—in fact, no—doubt that he will hurl them to a loop title in the playoffs. If so, he will challenge Huck Crevely of the Nassau Social Club for the personal title of "best pitcher" in PCSL annals. (For the outcome of Drake's 14th and final regular-season meeting, see story below).

MEN'S DOUBLES DELAYED

Rain finally interferes. After failing to postpone action in the first four community tennis tournaments this summer, rain finally made its presence felt in the Men's Doubles Championship during the past week. As a result, the finals are set for Thursday afternoon at 5:15 on the Church Courts.

One match of unusual interest was cancelled for another reason. Dave Smoyer and Webb Harrison, each a champion in the boys' singles earlier this summer, had to default their scheduled session with top-seeded H. Y. Tyler and Bill Bowen.

Their inability to play stemmed from Harrison's departure to keep another tennis date. He flew to San Diego, Calif., Monday to partake in the national tournament staged by the Junior Chamber of Commerce, having qualified by reaching the State finals of the tournament for boys' 15 and under last June.

Before Harrison departed, he and Smoyer had conquered the fourth-seeded team of Ed Breitbach and Jess Epstein, winning, 6-1, 6-3. The third-seeded entry had better luck. Marty Katz and Bayard Jordan topping George Bauer and Jim Givson, 6-1, 6-4.

In another quarter-final match, Don Mathey and Jack Ferns, seeded second, turned back Milton White and Joe Smider, 7-5, 6-4.

PLAYOFFS UNDERWAY

PAC Choice to Win. As the Tri-County Baseball League began its annual playoffs this week (see story below for first-round results), the Princeton Athletic Club, regular-season champion with an impressive 12-2 won-lost record, was favored heavily to cop the title cup. Elimination games between PAC and South Brunswick, the loop's No. 3 team, and runner-up Montgomery Township and Princeton Junction, No. 4, were scheduled this Tuesday, with a best-of-three final series between the winners to start this Friday evening.

PAC completed the regular campaign on a good note, shading South Brunswick in a down-to-the-wire thriller, 8-7. Actually, the spirited Princeton nine had to come from behind on Princeton High's field as the losers took advantage of five PAC errors in the third inning and scored six times. Warren Huff singled home Steve Hogarty with the decisive marker in the last of the sixth as darkness closed in and as the contest, a replay of two previous ties, seemed on the verge of being another deadlock.

Princeton went ahead in the hard-fought battle by tallying twice in the first on Huff's homer, then barely kept in contention by scoring single runs in the fourth and fourth after South Brunswick had carved a 6-2 lead. In the fifth, Bob Gallie's timely single tied matters, but a walk and a double put the visitors back in front in the top of the sixth. Ivan Riddick, eager to protect his unblemished pitching streak, hit a home run to even the score, 7-7, in the last of the sixth and set the stage for Huff's telltale blow several moments later.

The final Tri-County standings, prepared by league statistician Pete Lappan:

W. L. Pt. G.B.

Montgomery	7	7 500 5
S. Brunswick	6	8 429 6
Pr. Junction	2	10 167 9

CLOSE CONTESTS

Junior Loop Tightens. Only three games were played in the Princeton Junior Baseball League this past week and the well-balanced reputation of the loop was substantiated as two of the contests ended up deadlocked. As a result of these draws, the Lions Club (28 points) moved a mile closer to pace-setting Nassau Oil (34) by taking the week's sole decision, a 5-2 verdict over last-place Matthews Construction (17). Zorn Corcoran, Pete Rogers and Norman Cantor split the pitching chores to gain the Lions victory. Meanwhile, Bruce Sandvik, who deserved a better fate, hurled two tie games for Bowers Construction (23 points)—a 3-3 affair against Nassau Oil and a 2-2 meeting with Matthews. Tommy Petrone and Jack Hawkins, Nassau Oil's "revereable battery," took turns hurling and receiving, and lefthander Dave Blydenburg toiled for Matthews in its two outings.

IN ANTICIPATION OF FUTURE BIG CROWDS: Prompted by sizeable audiences at recent meetings of the Township Committee as well as a long-standing need for more parking space, the Township this week passed the halfway mark in construction of a 50-stall lot next to Township Hall. The year's allotment of quarry stones from Mercer County are being used for the project, which will be completed sometime next week, weather permitting. Township Engineer Calvin O. NOT-NO LUCKY 17TH

Mighty Finally FELL. No sooner had the Princeton Pioneers written nice things (see above) about Bill Bergen and Drake's Plumbing & Heating team than the Princeton Community Softball League's top figure and club dropped a hair-raiser to the Sportsmen's Club 4-3. The great upset took place Tuesday evening, and it gained a perfect regular-season for the huffer as well as the loop's No. 1 nine.

Despite the setback, Drake's 12-1 for the season remained the "team to beat" in playoffs beginning next week—and Bergen, who gave up only four safeties while his teammates were committing three miscues, remained the "pitcher to beat." The league leaders will face fourth-place Santicos to Heating & Heating (8-6) at Marquand Field, while Nassau Social Club (11-3), the No. 1 contender, will meet the third-place Sportsmen (4-4 with two make-ups to go) at 7:05 p.m. Field in best-of-three series.

In the hard-fought Sportsmen's Club triumph, Larry Kahny tossed an effective seven-inning, with Joe Toto receiving, Arch Stuts homered for the losers, but Bud Cavanaugh's two-run double was the winners' key blow. Luck McCredy pitched NSC to a 13-8 conquest of Pearson's Builders in the only other reported Tuesday night fray. Fucky Cupples homered for the victorious cause.

Last Thursday, as the distaff division of the PCLL squared off once again, ETS nosed out Bell Telephone, 3-8. Ginny Merhan gained credit for the success, which wasn't realized until ETS tallied three times in the final inning.

SAME OLD STORY

PAC, South Brunswick Tie. Butting heads for the first time in post-season playoff competition, the Princeton Athletic Club, No. 1 regular-season team, and South Brunswick, No. 3 this summer and title-holder last year, wound up in a 4-4 deadlock Tuesday evening. The draw surprised nobody, including the two opponents, for they did the same thing twice during the regular schedule and almost repeated in a replay last week (see above).

The Princeton nine was limited to five hits, but they were banged out when they counted most—Bob Montgomery going three-for-three, Ivan Riddick driving in two of the four runs and Mgr. Charlie Perpetua collecting the fifth blow. In the meantime, South Brunswick managed seven safeties off Perpetua, who rallied in the tight spots and was happy to settle for a stand-off.

Thus, the two "deadlockers" will be obliged to wage a playoff replay at 6:15 p.m. Friday on the Princeton High diamond. The "extra" contest will cause postponement of scheduled competition for the Tri-County Baseball League's coveted cup, but, considering the tenaciousness of the battles, it will be worth the wait.

It is expected the new Y camp will be open next season to boys from Princeton, Trenton, Pennington, New Brunswick and Metuchen. Ralph S. Mason is general chairman of the campaign. BOROUGH COURT ACTION

Two Fined for Racing. Two youths who pleaded not guilty to charges of racing down Nassau Street were found guilty this week and fined $30 apiece in Borough Traffic Court. Roland Gillette, 19, of 68 Clay Street, and John Hurley, 17, of 52 Maple Street, also had their licenses revoked for nine days.

A 24-year-old resident of Princeton Junction, R. E. Wadsworth, was found guilty of illegally operating a motor scooter. He had borrowed the scooter of John McIntyre, 17, of Brook Road, Princeton Junction. Wadsworth was picked up for Borough police for careless driving and then charged with driving without the necessary scooter license. Magistrate Louis R. Gerber, substituting for Magistrate Paul Chesbro, fined Wadsworth a total of $60. McIntyre received a mandatory penalty of $55 for allowing an unlicensed driver to operate his vehicle.

In Trenton, the Department of Motor Vehicles announced the revocation of licenses of two Princeton area drivers. Robert L. Wood, 24, 1 Alexander Street Extension, lost his driving privileges for an indefinite period following investigation of the fatal accident at Jefferson and Valley Roads in which Mrs. Elizabeth Stevens of Princeton was killed on February 9. The department reported proof of "disregard of the stop sign and reckless driving."

Miss Virginia E. Merhson, 19, Groves Mill Road, Cranbury, has had her license revoked for two months. She has four recent convictions, two for speeding and two for careless driving.

Obituaries

Miss Emily Felsted, 83, of Edgerstone Road, died August 1 in Princeton Hospital after a short illness. She was born in England and was a private nurse in Princeton for 30 years. Miss Felsted is survived by three nieces. The service was held at the Woodlawn Cemetery in New York City under direction of the Mather Funeral Home.

Henry Mack, 86, of 23 West Broad Street, Hopewell, died August 3 in Princeton Hospital. A retired custodian of Princeton University, he was a member of Trinity Episcopal Church of Princeton and F.O.S. of A. Princeton.

Husband of Mrs. Annie Robinson Mack, he is also survived by a son, C. William of Rocky Hill, a daughter, Mrs. Caroline Benamoun of Hopewell; five grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

The service was held at the Mather Funeral Home with the Rev. Charles Newberry officiating. Burial was in the Princeton Cemetery.

Mrs. Filomena Procaccini, 68, of 319 Witherspoon Street, died August 3 in Princeton Hospital. Widow of Felice Procaccini, she came to Princeton a year ago from Italy.

She is survived by two daughters, including Mrs. Guido Carnevale of Princeton; a son, Antonio, of Princeton; three sisters, ten grandchildren, and four great-grandchildren.

The funeral was held at the home of Mrs. Carnevale at 31 Maple Street. Solemn requiem mass was celebrated in St. Paul's Church with interment in the parish cemetery under direction of the Kimble Funeral Home.

Dr. Donald P. Smith, 78, of 2923 Main Street, Lawrenceville, died August 2. An emeritus professor of chemistry at Princeton University, Dr. Smith was born in Helena, Mont., and had been a member of the University faculty for 39 years, retiring in 1947.

Dr. Smith was a 1902 graduate of Williams College and received his doctorate in 1907 from Princeton University. Germany. He specialized in the occlusion of gases in metal and metallic stress and change with cold work.

Survivors include his wife, Mrs. Margaret Warner Smith, and two daughters. The funeral was private, followed by interment at the convenience of the family.

Miss Mary R. Sullivan, 72, formerly of 164 Moore Street, died August 5 in the Essex County Hospital at Cedar Grove. Daughter of the late John H. and Annie D. Sullivan, she was born in Princeton.

Miss Sullivan served for 45 years as secretary to the late Dean Arthur M. Greene, head of the Princeton University School of Engineering. She retired in 1948. She was a member of the Ladies Catholic Benevolent Association and of Court Moran 278, Catholic Daughters of America.

Survivors include two brothers and two nephews. The funeral will be held Thursday at 9 a.m. at the Kimble Funeral Home. Requiem high mass will be celebrated at 10 in St. Paul's Church, with interment in the parish cemetery.

projects in Europe, South America, Canada, Alaska, western United States and upstate New York. Faculty members from the Department of Geology are heading the expedition while some 40 undergraduates and graduate students are also taking part.

Dr. Harry H. Hess, chairman of the department, is working in Puerto Rico, Venezuela, the Dominican Republic and the Virgin Islands. He is investigating the formation and development of mountains and the relation of earthquakes and volcanic eruptions.

Internationally-known as a mineralogist and geophysicist, Dr. Hess has spent the past 12 summers on the project which involves a detailed working-out of the geologic history of the 100 million years of the Antillean Islands and the north coast of South America. In the Puerto Rican phase, which is being supported by the Economic Development Administration of Puerto Rico for its practical significance in the future development of mineral resources, he is being assisted by number of students.

George W. Cameron of 142½ Hedge Road graduated from Bryant College in Providence, R. I., as a Bachelor of Science in Accounting. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George D. Cameron.

Another team of graduate students will join him in Venezuela where his work is receiving the cooperation of the Ministry of Mines and Hydrocarbons. Still other groups of students will assist Dr. Hess in Santo Domingo and the Virgin Islands.

To Study Cave Man, Dr. Sheldon Judson is spending the summer studying the Paleolithic "cave cultures" of southern France. A specialist in the geologic antiquity of man, he has received a grant from the National Science Foundation. He is accompanied by John C. Stewart, a post doctoral student who lives in Princeton.

In Germany, Dr. Alfred G. Fischer and Henry R. Ohlen of Ft. Worth, Tex., a graduate student, are studying limestone reefs in connection with research on fundamental principles of scientific interest in the search for oil.

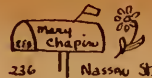

Members of the department working in western United States include Professors Erling Dorf, Glenn L. Jepsen, Franklin B. Van Houten, John C. Maxwell and William E. Bonni. Dr. Dorf, a former chairman of the Committee of Paleobotany of the National Research Council, is studying fossil plants found in the volcanic ashes of the northern section of Yellowstone National Park. He is revising the history of the Yellowstone region as determined by the flora and climatic conditions for 50 to 100 million years ago.

Dr. Jepsen, curator of vertebrate paleontology at the University, is collecting vertebrate fossils in Montana and Wyoming. In the same general area, Dr. Van Houten is working under a research grant from an oil corporation on the variation of sedimentary rocks which are potentially oil-bearing.

At Red Lodge, Montana, professors Maxwell and Bonni are directing Princeton's summer field course in geology for a group of undergraduates. The university has established a center of geological instruction and regional investigation for the students.

News Of The CHURCHES

LUTHERAN PLAN SCHOOL. Open to All—Begin, Monday. All Princeton children from the age of four through the eighth grade have been invited to take part in the Vacation Bible School at the Lutheran Church of the Messiah, Nassau and Cedar Lane. The school will run from 9 a.m. to 11:30 a.m., each weekday morning from next Monday, August 12, through Sunday, August 26. The youngest children will be dismissed at 10:30 a.m. Parents will register this Thursday and Friday between 10 a.m. and noon at the church. Late registration will be accepted between 8:30 and 9 a.m. on the opening day.

"Living in Christ" is the theme of the course of study that will be followed. The course will teach the life of Christ as it is revealed during the Christian year, and the chief worship services of the church will be part of the curriculum also. All the children will be given handbook projects, and there will be recreation, games and refreshment besides the course of study.

The Lutheran church school will close with an outing on Saturday, August 24, and a family service the following Sunday morning which will be part of the regular service.

Edward Wojtkowski will be the director of the school, and Harry Suckop has been his planning associate. Mr. Wojtkowski is choir director of the church and Mr. Suckop is chairman of the committee for parish education. Mrs. Susan, Mrs. Arnold Fehle and Miss Jane Blasch will also serve in the direction of the school.

Bulletin Notes. Informal summer gatherings for discussion and recreation have taken the place of more formal church meetings, especially for mid-week services. At the Witherspoon church, a series of Home Summer Evening Services has been held, each Sunday at 8 p.m. This Sunday the service will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Waxwood, 23 Lehigh Avenue. The Witherspoon group has been discussing "Man in the Middle" by James A. Pike and Howard A. Johnson, and from this book, the Rev. Benjamin J. Anderson, Leonard N. E. to and Howard Waxwood, Jr., will discuss "Conversations of a Tempted Soul" and two voices on the Seven Deadly Sins. This week's sin: Gluttony.

Calvary Baptist church members have been meeting at the Parsonage for brief devotions each Wednesday evening, and then leaving to spend the remainder of the evening at a non-prospective new members.

Unitarians, picnicking occasionally during the summer months, are waiting for their third and final summer picnic on August 26. It will be held at the home delphia. His appointment crowns a life-long interest in scouting.

Mr. Ammerman began his scouting career as a boy scout in El Paso, Texas, and attained the rank of eagle scout in 1925. Before his graduation from the University of California, he had been an assistant scoutmaster, scoutmaster, and neighborhood commissioner.

He became scout executive of a boy scout council in Watertown, S. D., in 1934, and later served in the same position in Minot, N. D. In 1939, he became circulation manager of "Boy's Life Magazine," published by the Boy Scouts of America, and in 1947 he started serving as deputy regional scout executive for Oklahoma, New Mexico and Texas.

Since 1952, he has served on the national council staff as assistant national director of field operations. A member of the Session of the Presbyterian Church in Princeton, Mr. Ammerman is married and has three sons.

Birth List. Eleven children were born to Princeton area residents in Princeton Hospital last week. Mr. and Mrs. Anthony J. Bartolino of 8 Tee Ar Place are parents of twin boys.

Sons were also born to Mr. and Mrs. Gerhard Vienna, Skillman; Mr. and Mrs. J. Fred Little, 317 Princeton Road, Plainsboro; Mr. and Mrs. Daniel M. Kan, 419-A Butler Avenue; Mr. and Mrs. David C. Gordon, Kingston Road; Mr. and Mrs. Samuel C. Gitter, 228-B Halsey Street.

Parents of daughters were Mr. and Mrs. Angelo J. Cenerino, 51 Leigh Avenue; Mr. and Mrs. Robert O. Winder, 217-G Marshall Street; Mr. and Mrs. Walter D. Cupples, 78 Linden Lane; and Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Harmon, 1 Shirley Court.

Nine girls to attend Y Camp. Mrs. William Beatty, YWCA camp chairman, announced this week that nine Princeton girls will attend Camp James M. Speers. The camp is located near Dingman's Ferry, Pa.

Owned by the Central Atlantic Council of YMCA's serving New Jersey, Delaware, the District of Columbia and Maryland, the camp is operated for boys in July and girls in August. The program at Camp Speers includes handicrafts, nature lore, amateur contests, overnight camp outs, swimming, boating, devotions, singing and sports.

Girls participating in this year's camping experience are Nancy C. Barnard, Linda C. Bolden, Beverly Marshall, Beverly Phox, Victoria Phox, Judith Silverstein, Linda Silverstein, Hope Wells and Myrna Wells.

Miss Alicia Smith, a junior at Beaver College, will serve as counselor for the Princeton campers. A graduate of Princeton High School, she has had experience at Camp Tamarack, the Princeton Girl Scout Camp, and at Bryn Mawr Camp in Pennsylvania.

NEAT AND SWEET

for $16,800

This little white frame house in a friendly neighborhood has a welcoming look, nestled as it is among evergreens, forsythia, dogwood, flowers and all sorts of pretty, well-kept landscaping. (It also has a flourishing vegetable garden.) Inside it is equally well-kept with fresh paint on the walls of living-room, two bedrooms and shiny big kitchen. For a retired couple who love to pull over the yard or a family with one child who want to be near shopping, school and busline, this small house with a large basement for epilover of all kinds—has definite possibilities.

COLONIAL ATMOSPHERE FOR COUNTRY ADDICTS

You have to be a certain kind of person to buy this house—you can't be someone who MUST have that "Princeton address", can't, mind driving (25 minutes on good roads), must like county living (3 acres of orchards, brook, slopes and a view.) If you are that certain person, what a buy! The 200 year old house has everything an old house can offer—fireplaces, wide floorboards, old glass panes, wonderful cellar with huge fireplace, big beams—plus a tasteful job of modernizing and decorating in the attractive, clean, dining room, five bedrooms. An old carriage house could make a separate apartment or guest house. Are there any writers with live-in mothers-in-law reading this?

REAL ESTATE OFFERINGS

SPECIALLY RECOMMENDED

PRINCETON

A brookside location and swimming pool make this three bedroom split-level a most desirable offering. The very spacious living room has a fireplace, separate dining area and large well-arranged kitchen. The upper level has three large, airy bedrooms and 1 1/2 baths. The lower level has a large playroom, a laundry and lavatory.

$36,000

Other Recommendations to Buy

PRINCETON

A new listing in a most desirable and tastefully developed area. Being a six room split-level, the room arrangement is fairly standard. However the rooms are larger than average and nicely decorated. Also there is a full bath and two half baths, an excellent family room and more than ample storage.

$31,500

ROCKY HILL

A recently built five room cottage in an appropriate rural setting. The room arrangement is good, kitchen is large, living room spacious and with a fireplace plus three bedrooms and one bath.

$20,000

LAWRENCEVILLE

A nicely designed, most adaptable split-level in a quiet, convenient location. First level has a spacious (21' x 15') playroom, an additional room, a bath and laundry. Second level has living room, dining room and kitchen. Third level three bedrooms and bath.
